Advanced Features: Allowing users/customers to leave a review.

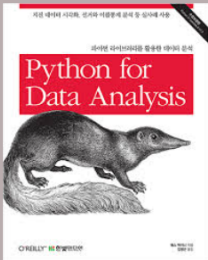

I have implemented a feature where users can leave reviews on any of the products available on the site. Users must register themselves as a user of the site and then get authenticated to leave a review. The users are provided with two input fields where they can rate the product and also write a review on that product.

The reviews are then displayed on the detail page of that particular product.

I have implemented the model relationships to connect users, products, and reviews. Also, the CRUD functionality is added to the review so the users can modify or delete the review from the product later.

A screenshot of an example of a review on a book is shown in the image below.
